In der Mitte des Baumes stand ein weißer, schaggyger Mann, der die Augen geschlossen hatte. Die Leute sagten, es sei ein Donnleib, ein Geist, der die Wälder bewacht. Die Wildbäume, die um den Donnleib herum wuchsen, waren so groß und alt, dass man sie nicht zählen konnte. Die Leute sagten, dass der Donnleib die Wildbäume beschützt und dass sie nur dann geerntet werden dürfen, wenn er es erlaubt.
